

DRAMA AT DIMENSIONS

Drama performance 2014

The students from the Preparatory Course for Singapore-Cambridge GCE O-Level gave a great performance on 30th October 2014 during a Drama Competition organized as part of their English Language class.

A team of 4 from Class 24-10 and Class 159 performed their scripted rendition of plays with the title "The Boy Who Cried Wolf", "Fearless John", "Gwain And The Witch" and "The Shoemaker

And Elves".

Teamwork was apparent throughout the performances with all students working together to entertain the judges and audience. Many handmade costumes and props were also used to beautifully narrate each story.

Ultimately, the cast of "The Shoemaker And Elves" took home the grand prize for being the overall best performance, followed by the cast of "Gwain And The Witch". An award for best actor and best actress were presented to Boris Xu Xiao Liang and Karinnie He Zhi Qing respectively.

It was an entertaining effort and an excellent method to improve their English-speaking proficiencies.

在2014年10月30日的话剧比赛中，GCE O水准的学生取得了非常优异的成绩，该比赛将作为英语授课内容的一部分。

参赛的四支队伍来自O水准24-10班和159班，他们分别表演了《The Boy Who Cried Wolf》、《Fearless John》、《Gwain And The Witch》和《The Shoemaker And Elves》剧本。

学生们的团队合作精神给评委和观众留下了非常深刻的印象。大量手工制作的服装和道具唯美地将故事情节展现给在场的每一位观众。

最终，表演《The Shoemaker And Elves》的团队由于整体出色的表现捧回了第一名大奖，第二名由表演《Gwain And The Witch》的团队获得。最佳男主角和最佳女主角分别颁给了Xu Xiao Liang和He Zhi Qing同学。

Ever wondered what it is like to be a business student? DIMENSIONS Insight chats with two students, CALVIN SUNG and LAREINA LIEW of the Bachelor of Arts (Honours) in Business Administration – Top-Up Degree to find out more about their course – the challenges and the charms.

Q: What made you interested to enrol into a business programme?

CALVIN: I want to be a businessman and dream of starting my own business with my friends – in e-commerce, either focusing on food or automobile services.

LAREINA: For me, I wasn't really sure of what I want to do in the future but was told that if I studied business, it would allow for many open doors to limitless options and career pathways. My main interest is to pursue a profession in the media industry and I think I have learned quite a fair bit in my course to be able to try out this field.

Q: What are the best bits about being a business student?

CALVIN: As a business student, you will learn a lot about time management and according to my peers, I have mainly improved in this area as compared to when I first joined. I use to be a last-minute kind of person, but now am more focused and task-oriented to know that time is money and through my class undertakings, engage briskly and effectively.

LAREINA: Business is broad and allows for self-reflection and a great amount of idea-generation. Although sometimes I get lost in my thought process, I am thankful for great lecturers who would provide tips to guide me into the right path. As a business student, you will have to be more independent but also have the chance to rely on others for constructive feedback and direction.

Q: How about the challenges? Are they any?

CALVIN: Of course there are challenges. The biggest one for me is working in a team for group assignments. Different people have different ways of working, and have differing ideas. My patience is tested in these tense situations but real-life lessons will be learnt in the process. Working in groups consists of four stages – forming, storming, norming and performing. Once we pass the “storming” stage, where conflicts and disagreements happen, we end up “norming” and getting to know each other better, thus tapping into our strengths and relieving our weaknesses to perform successfully.

LAREINA: I agree with Calvin. Working in teams is challenging. Especially if some team members are slow to respond. But in this way, I get to apply what my lecturers have taught me, which is how to manage people. Many times, you have to play the role of a leader even though you have no experience in doing so. I am young but have led my team in terms of communication and research methodologies.
